Assignment

First, provide a brief overview of one pedagogical theory covered in the course. It must be a theory from either human science pedagogy or social science and critical pedagogy (not the part on movement science and non-linear pedagogy). Give a clear description of the key elements and principles of the theory and explain key concepts in the theory.

Second, apply the theory to a practical sport pedagogical case of your own choice. The case can, for example, involve teaching a course in physical education, addressing a specific pedagogical challenge in rehabilitation, or enacting a particular coaching strategy. After a brief description of the context, objectives and participants involved in the case, explicate your pedagogical work and explain how the theory has informed and affected your reflections and actions. As part of your answer, discuss the value of the theory and also its limitations.
